The FRIEND A FARMER INITIATIVE aims to utilize social media to create an awareness campaign, encouraging people from non-farming backgrounds to 'friend' farming families and become more familiar with the facts surrounding Australian agriculture. Farming and non-farming families are being invited to participate, providing profiles and photographs of themselves and their enterprise, answering questions about what they do (the good, the bad and the ugly). These interesting and often inspiring profiles are being showcased on the Friend a Farmer Initiative Facebook page regularly (and on the website in the near future). The page has already gained an overwhelming amount of support and followers.
